REFERENCES, Ch. 23

(1993); according to Fraser, about 1 Gt/yr of wood is burned, primarily as fuel for cooking in undeveloped countries.

26. N. Wade, “Gasohol: does it or doesn’t it produce positive net energy?,” Science 204, 928 (1979).

78. Anonymous, “Turning scraps into energy,” Associated Press dispatch, 10 May 2004. This discusses the BioMax 15, a device for turning waste into electricity.

140. V. V. N. Kishore and P. V. Ramana, “Improved cookstoves in rural India: how improved are they? A critique of the perceived benefits from the National Programme on Improved Chulhas (NPIC),” Energy 27, 47 (2002).

